BHGS TOURNAMENT Rules

LOW NUMBERS

In the event that there are insufficient players to make your chosen period viable (normally fewer than 6 players), you will be offered the option to switch to another period or a full refund.

GENERAL ENTRY CONDITIONS

Admission to any BHGS tournament is at the sole discretion of the organisers and their decision on all matters is final. If any entrant breaches these rules, commits a criminal offence, causes disruption during the competition (including to public, traders or staff at the venue) or causes or threatens to cause damage to property at the venue the BHGS's representative on the day will be entitled in his or her absolute discretion to require that player to leave the competition and the venue immediately, without any refund. In such cases we are likely also to refuse entry to future events

ARMY LISTS

Late submission of army lists is your best and most effective way to make the lives of the many kind, selfless and generous people who organise these events for you a real misery. Please therefore try to submit your list in good time. Deadline dates and list checkers will be published on the BHGS website and communicated to players. The BHGS reserve the right to inflict any one of a wide range of as yet unspecified grave, horrible, humiliating and potentially personally painful penalties on anyone who submits a late list. Especially if you are a repeat offender. You know who you are.... so be careful !

GDPR

As an entrant to a BHGS event you are agreeing to The BHGS and the Organisers of the LGT processing your data as an attendee, and to receive from us both a few emails containing practical details about the event itself.

Subsequent to the event if you are not already on the BHGS mailing list you will be sent an "opt-in" email asking whether you wish to be included in the general BHGS email list, as per European GDPR regulations. We generally send out only a dozen or so emails each year to inform list members about upcoming gaming events. Information you provide when booking (i.e. which ruleset you enter) forms part of your profile, and means we can send you even fewer emails (i.e. we occasionally send emails promoting ruleset-specific competitions only to people who have played those sets at one of our previous events). You can unsubscribe or change your preferences for this list at any time via our website.
